2004 North Shore
Fishing Tournament

The North Shore Fishing Tournament was held on Saturday, October 2nd. There were eight boats that braved the black and rainy skies in hope of bringing back the winning Rockfish. In the end, the largest Rock was caught by Vince

Marks about 100 yards from the entrance to Gray's Creek, to the dismay of other entrants who went as far as twenty miles south of the Bay Bridge. I think everyone had a great time despite the lack of cooperation of Mother Nature and the fish.

Special thanks to Brian Siwinski, Todd Heath, Carl Kuhne and all the people who supported the 2004 North Shore Fishing Tournament. Next year we should have additional prizes for largest blue crab caught while trolling and most hours and miles trolled without catching a fish. These suggestions were made by Dane Mariner and Bill Morris.

History of the North Shore Fishing Tournament

convinced Fred Rausch to use his beach and pier for the official weigh-in. Needless to say, it was a great success, and provided bragging rights for some lucky individual for the next year. Over the years there have been many interesting stories. One of the most memorable was the year a young boy named Kevin Kuhne beat Shawn Bennett for the largest fish. That rivalry still exists; both Shawn and Kevin have their own charter boats now. On another occasion, a bored and fishless contestant, who will remain a secret, pulled into Annapolis harbor and had a few bloody marys at Mc Garvey's. He decided to buy a few fish at the market to bring back for the weigh-in. The big mistake was buying a sea trout as well as a blue fish. When the boat pulled into Fred's pier and the other fishermen saw the sea trout, everyone wanted to forget the weigh-in and go back out to fish for the trout. Everyone knew fishing would be better down the Bay, so a number of boats would spend the night before at Harrison's or Tighlman Island. The stories are so numerous that they best be left at sea. ## Park Report

And the beat goes on. Improvements at the Park continue. Bald patches near the marina and elsewhere in the Park are receiving grass seed thanks to Sue Coburn who volunteered to spread the seed. The grading and drainage improvements have eliminated much of the swamp effect (the main complaint identified in the Park survey) but it has been decided that it will take filling the low spots with top soil to eliminate all of the swamping. Top soil will be spread late in the fall when the ground is solid and the heavy equipment will not leave ruts. Brian Siwinski and Bob Gardner have volunteered their equipment, expertise and time to lead this charge. We will need volunteers to help rake and do whatever else is needed. Please contact Bob Douglas if you can help. A date and time will be announced later. We still also are seeking any information you may have on the missing fourth drainage grate in the Park. We understand that it was covered over in years past, but we can not find it now. Please call Bob Douglas if you can locate it. And in case you missed it, Brian (the bobcat artist) and Courtney Douglas (raker extraordinaire) graded the park over Labor Day and disposed of the large pile of rubbish and garbage from the July 31 refurbishing of the Park. The Park ribbon-cutting and thank you ceremony was rained out and has been rescheduled for the spring to coincide with the neighborhood clean-up. At that time we will recognize all the volunteers who have pitched in to restore the park. One of the wonderful volunteers for the Park is Amy Bartholomee. Amy, editor of the Barnacle, provided in the October edition the impressive coverage and photo layout of the Park clean-up and the biography of Kenneth Nash, for whom the Park is named. Mr. Nash was active in youth programs for North Shore residents and it is fitting that the Park bears his name. Remember that the Park is the favorite spot in the neighborhood for many of our children. Treat it as a special place by doing your part to keep it nice. Please pick up trash, pull vegetation out of the mulched area and whatever else needs to be done when you visit the park to keep it nice. The Park is only as good as we make and keep it. Enjoy.

Bob Douglas, Park

Congratulations to Patti and Joe Ferko. We would like to welcome the newest member of their family to the community. MacKenzie Sandra was born September 21, 2004 weighing 9 pounds, 4 ounces.
